Roy Cooper signed the sports wagering bill into law Wednesday, legalizing betti ng on sports and horse races in North Carolina

Proponents in the legislature said many in North Carolina already bet on sports.

Legalizing sports wagering means the state can regulate and tax the industry.

Financial analysts in the General Assembly say they expect more than $70 millio n in revenue for the state after five years.

About $30 million in state revenue will go to supporting youth sport programs an d athletics at 13 UNC system schools.
